

Green jobs: a better future for rural youth

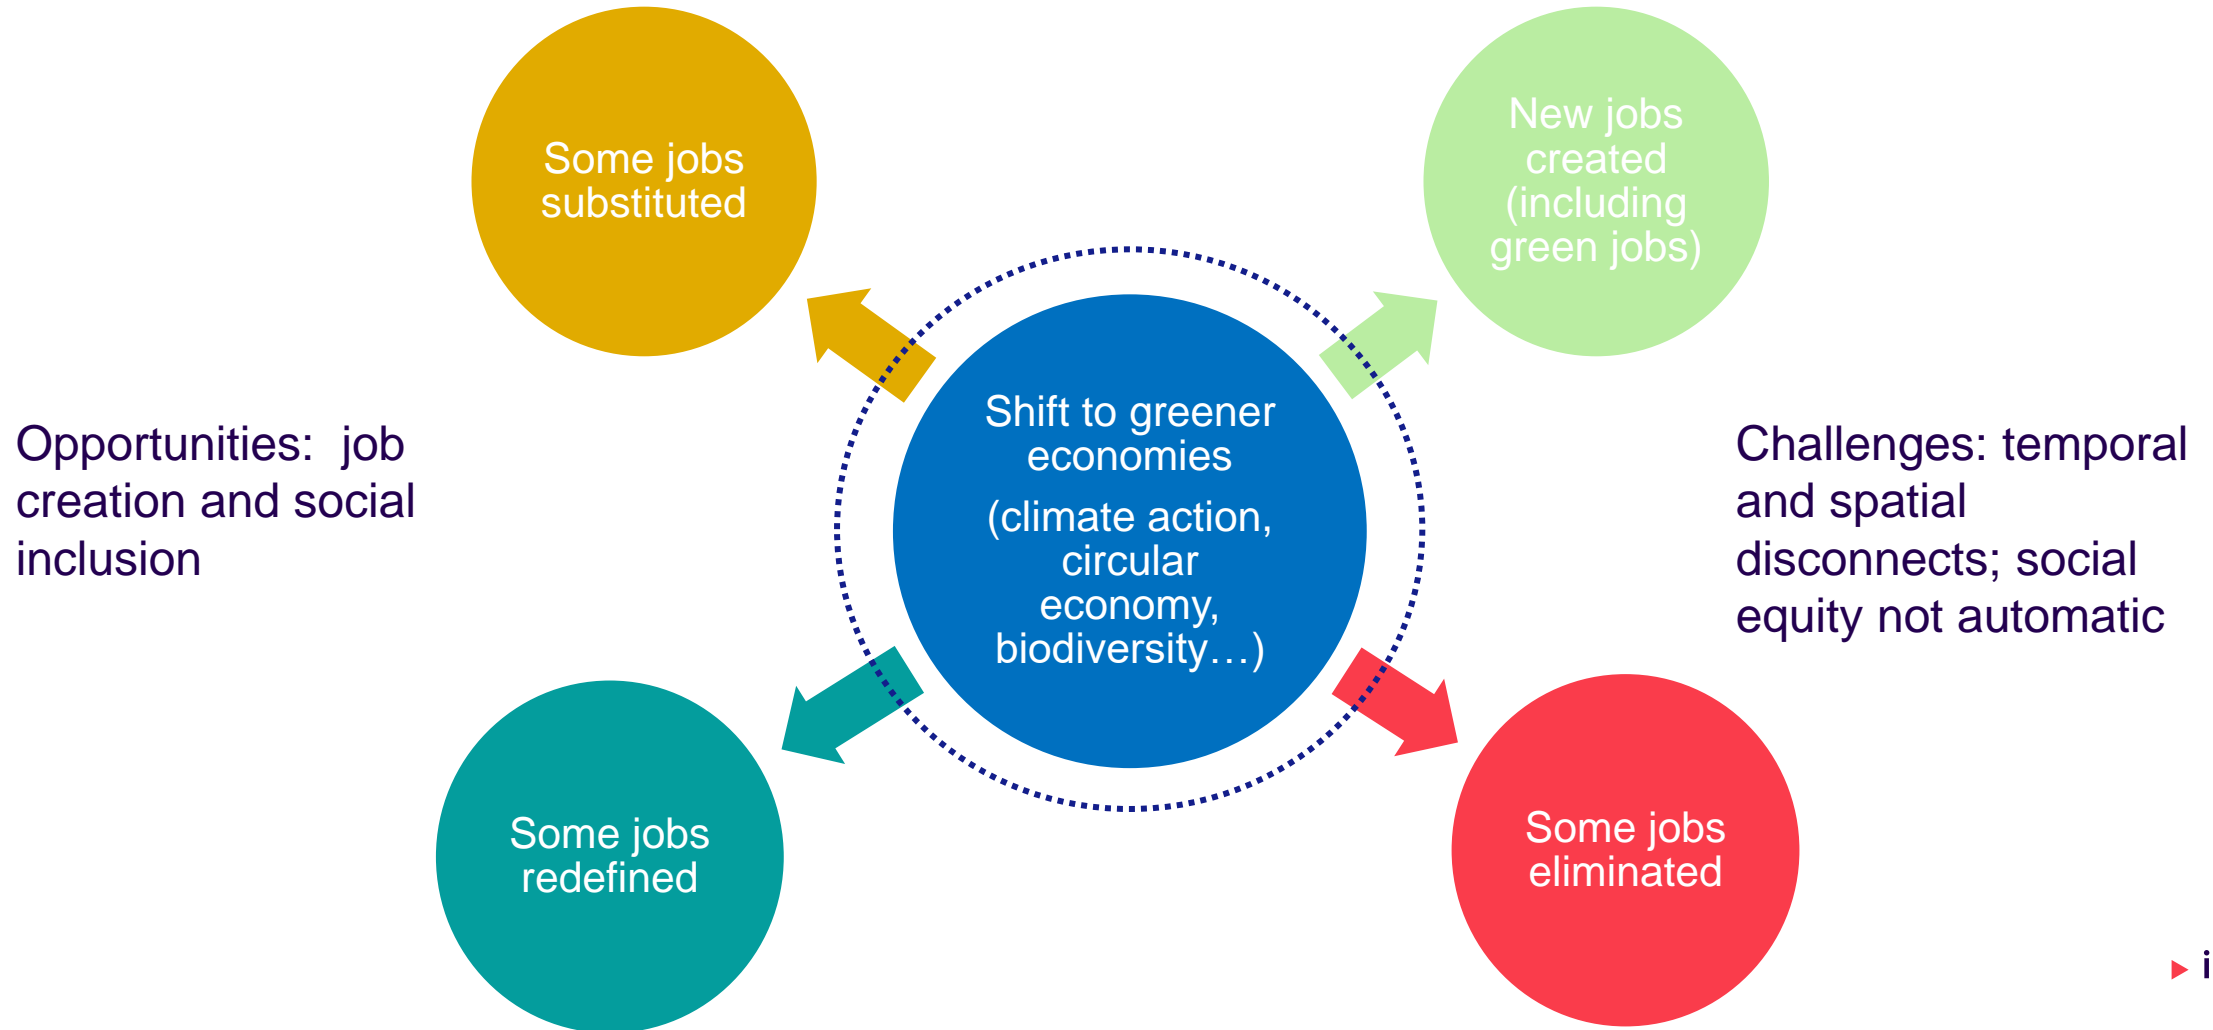

Global Donor Platform for Rural Development

Camilla Roman, Priority Action Programme on Just Transitions, International Labour Organization

Multiple levels – Multiple layers

Shifting to sustainability – impacts on the labour market

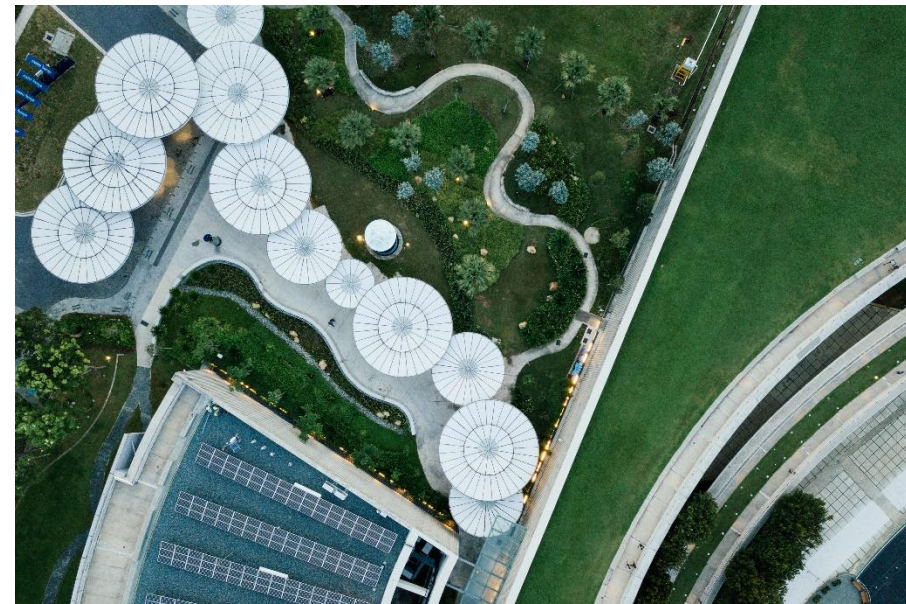

Differentiated impacts – reflections on rural economies and youth

What is a just transition to a low-carbon climate resilient economy?

A Just Transition involves maximising the social and economic opportunities of climate and environmental action while minimising and carefully managing any challenge – including through effective social dialogue and respect for fundamental principles and rights at work and human rights.

2015 Paris Agreement

Supporting climate ambition & sustainability

Delivering social justice & decent work

Just Transition

ILO Just Transition Guidelines
2023 Conclusions of the International Labour Conference

▶ 2023 International Labour Conference – General Discussion on just transition

187 ILO Member states

- ▶ Reaffirmed the need for urgent and ambitious action to advance a just transition
- ▶ Endorsed the ILO Guidelines as the central reference for policy making, and the framework for action based on four building blocks
- ▶ Reaffirmed ILO's leadership role on just transition in the multilateral system

ILO's Just Transition Guidelines

A just transition: some potential entry points for rural youth

Assessments to guide policy making – identifying job impacts for youth and in rural areas

Social dialogue and stakeholder engagement: ensuring the voices of rural youth are heard

Sectoral approaches

Social protection for resilience today and tomorrow

Public employment programmes: making them responsive to the needs and priorities of youth

Sectoral approaches

Skills for green jobs & employment centres

Sustainable enterprises and job-rich and resilient economic diversification

▶ COP28 – building on a momentum on just transition

- A just transition work program
- Adaptation
- Finance
- Loss and damage

- Importance of a shared understanding on just transition (ILO Guidelines) to ensure meaningful and credible efforts while recognising policies need to be fully grounded in national circumstances and priorities
- Relevance of cross-country experience-sharing and capacity development
- Just transition in energy and beyond energy
- Just transition and adaptation
- Greater integration of just transition goals in financing instruments and flows

▶ Thank you